The following are highlights of CoARC activities since the last newsletter:

Entry into Practice Standards:

- CoARC will start the revision process for our Entry into Practice Standards in 2018 with an expected publication in 2020.
- CoARC will be publishing a revision timeline after its March 2018 Board Meeting.

The Report on Current Status (RCS) Deadline has Been Extended

- The new software reporting system being adopted by CoARC will require extensive beta testing.
- The RCS due date has been extended from July 1st to September 1st.

New Annual Report for 2018

The CoARC has teamed up with Indigo Interactive to develop a new interactive Report of Current Status tool. As mentioned previously the software is currently being beta tested and will be available in the fall. Some of the updates to the software include:

- Programs will be able to upload supplemental documents directly into the RCS.
- Programs will be able to generate reports directly from within the RCS rather than having to order a pdf from the developers.
- Programs will have access to input data year-round.
- The new interactive Outcomes map provides a visual representation of outcomes data for programs by region and state.
- Previously input data will be imported into the system prior to the launch of the new program. The system will include on-screen instructions to guide and train end users.

CoARC Annual Report on Accreditation

The 2017 Report on Accreditation in Respiratory Care Education provides:

- Descriptive statistics of CoARC programs as of 12/31/17
- Accreditation actions taken in 2017
- Aggregated statistics of graduate, enrollment, and

Development of a High Cut Score Threshold

In May 2010, CoARC stopped making accreditation decisions based on the RRT Credentialing Success since the RRT was voluntary in all 50 states at the time. Today it is voluntary in 43 states.

With the advent of the NBRC TMC Exam, all graduates entering the profession must take a written examination with two cut scores. Achieving the higher cut score means the graduate earns the CRT and is eligible to take the CSE to earn the RRT.

CoARC has been gathering data over the past couple of years in order to identify a high cut score threshold. An announcement will be made once the data has been reviewed and a threshold established for July 2019 based on TMC data collected for 2015, 2016, and 2017.

2017 Report on Accreditation Highlights

- The AAS degree accounted for the largest (51%) of all degree types, an increase of 85% since 2011. There has been a 47% decrease in AS programs since 2011.
- The associate degree is the only degree offered in DC and 20 states.
- Total applications decreased by 42% between 2011 and 2016.
- Total enrollments decreased by 3% in 2016 compared to 2015. Total graduates in 2016 decreased by 4% compared to 2015.
- The mean retention rate was 91% with 4 programs below the 70% threshold.
- The mean CRT credentialing success increased by 0.6% to 93.1% with 21 programs below the 80% threshold.
- The mean RRT credentialing success increased by 2.5% to a high of 75.1%.

SPOTLIGHT ON A COMMISSIONER

Pat Munzer, DHSc, RRT, FAARC

Pat Munzer is a Dean of the School of Applied Studies at Washburn University in Topeka Kansas. She started her academic administration and leadership in 1984 when she became program director for a new respiratory therapy program. All curriculum for the program needed to be developed, clinical sites secured, affiliation agreements signed and the development of a self-study for accreditation had to be developed. Pat led these efforts and the program received its first accreditation letter in 1986.

Her leadership roles continued in 1997 when she became chair of the allied health department. At that time the department consisted of four associate degrees, one certificate program, eight faculty and one staff. Since then the department has expanded and now consists of five associate degrees, five certificates, two baccalaureate degrees offering four majors, and a master degree with eleven programs totally online. The number of faculty has increased to 21 and two staff positions.

In addition, she served nine months as the interim associate vice president for academic affairs from April 2010 through January 2011. She became dean for the School of Applied Studies in 2013.

She has held several professional leadership positions including the following:

- the American Association for Respiratory Care (AARC), Speaker of the House of Delegates
- the Kansas Respiratory Care Society (KRCS), President
- the National Network of Health Care in Two Year Colleges (NN2), Treasurer

Pat has been a CoARC site visitor since 1994, a commissioner since 2010 and served as Secretary from 2015 – 2017. She currently serves as President-Elect and will become President at the end of the December 2019 CoARC board meeting.
